

WISCONSIN, MADISON

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor, University of Wisconsin-Madison.

The Department of Geography at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is accepting applications for an Assistant Professor, tenure-track position, beginning August 2012. We seek a nature-society geographer whose research shows substantive engagement with contemporary biophysical and social processes in North America. Of particular interest are applicants who conduct policy-relevant research on water, energy, food, or health that contributes to the fields of environmental justice and/or environmental governance, broadly defined.

For more information on Geography at UW-Madison, see <http://www.geography.wisc.edu/>. To apply for this position, please send a letter describing research and teaching interests, a CV, and names and contact information (including email address) of three referees to: Professor Matthew Turner, Recruitment Committee Chair, naturesociety@geography.wisc.edu. Inquiries may be sent to the same email address. To ensure full consideration, applications must be received by March 1, 2012. Review of applications will begin upon receipt and will continue until the position is filled.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Unless confidentiality is requested in writing, information regarding the applicants must be released upon request. Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality. Employment may require a criminal background check prior to appointment.