Join us this Friday for the annual Geography Graduate Research Symposium. Learn more about graduate student research in the department as students prepare to present their work at the AAG conference at the end of the month. Speakers include (but not limited to):

- Charles Carlin
  Experimenting with an animist therapeutics.

- Nicolle Etchart
  Environmental Conservation and Hybrid Policy Interactions: Payments for Ecosystem Services (PES) and Protected Areas in Ecuador's Northern Amazon

- Meghan Kelly
  Mapping Syrian Refugee Border Crossings: A critical, feminist perspective

- Laura Lawler
  Diverse Economies and “Good” Entrepreneurs and Farmers in Refugee Resettlement in the US

- Garrett Dash Nelson
  Assembling or arresting a metropolis: Competing unit landscapes in Boston and its region

- Karen Russ
  Thermodynamic vs. Dynamic Hydrological Response to Isolated Paleoclimate Forcings

- Carl Sack
  Carbon Emergency Infrastructures

- Rebecca Summer
  The American Alley: A History of a Contested Urban Public Space

This Friday – 11am-3pm – Room 350

Everyone welcome!